Profile

Web developer looking for work! I build full stack web applications, primarily with Django framework, but I recently developed a passion for front-end too.

Fast learner eager to try new career paths. Attention to detail is my thing.

Recently finished a 4 month Python course in which I learned how to build web applications from database structuring to front-end design and deploying as well as the basics of data science and machine learning.

Check out my most recent work at my Portfolio website.
